Job Description

The program is seeking candidates to fill a full-time tenure track position to begin August 2022 at the rank of Assistant Professor in Criminal Justice and Criminology. The successful candidate must be able to teach a broad range of core criminal justice and criminology courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels. In addition, the candidate's ability to teach courses in legal studies such as courts, criminal law and procedure, law of evidence, and civil liability issues is preferred. The department also has plans to pursue a new social justice area of emphasis, in which this new faculty member will contribute. The selected candidate may also be asked to contribute to the University's general education curriculum, with its emphasis on a common First-Year Seminar and core curriculum courses that enhance student's critical thinking and the College's support of interdisciplinary programs of study.

Review will begin January 31, 2022 and remain open until filled.

Candidates interviewing on campus must have official transcripts (undergraduate and graduate) forwarded directly to the chair of the search committee by their degree granting institutions, prior to an on-campus interview.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology, or closely related discipline. ABD's with completion of degree by time of appointment will also be considered.
