Welcome to the 2007 Midwestern Criminal Justice Association Conference

We are pleased you have joined us in Chicago this year for the annual MCJA conference. This year's conference promises, as usual, to be stimulating and enjoyable. We have made a couple of changes to the typical conference format and we expect you will find these changes to be positive. Several individuals deserve recognition for their hard work to organize this year's conference. The 2007 Program Committee includes Dawn Beichner from Illinois State University, Hector Hernandez (student representative) from Bowling Green State University, Stanley Howard (student representative) from Southern Illinois University Carbondale, William King from Bowling Green State University, David Olson from Loyola University Chicago, and Jody Sundt from Indiana University. Current MCJA officers provided valuable input during the program development. Mitch Chamlin, Editor of Journal of Crime and Justice, and Justin Patchin, incoming 2nd Vice President, served on this year's student paper competition committee. Nick Harpster, a doctoral student in the College of Criminal Justice at Sam Houston State University, assisted with numerous tasks associated with compiling this year's program. Professor David Olson deserves special recognition for his continued service to the MCJA. David has ensured that we have audio-visual equipment in the meeting rooms and he organized the opening day reception. He was able to secure donated ballroom space, food, and beverages from Loyola University Chicago for the reception. When you see David at the conference this year please let him know we appreciate his continued service.

In addition to the strong papers that will be presented and discussed, there are a few noteworthy events taking place. Travis Linnemann from Kansas State University is the winner of this year's student paper competition. He will present his award winning paper Thursday afternoon at 2:30. The MCJA and the Illinois Academy of Criminology are co-sponsoring a plenary session Thursday afternoon and Loyola University Chicago will host a reception that will immediately follow the plenary session. A map and walking directions are included in your program so we hope you will make the short walk to the Loyola University Water Tower campus. Joe Kezon and Scot Hamilton from the GIS Group at the Chicago Police Department will join us Friday afternoon to provide an overview and discussion of the CPD's information systems. The MCJA business meeting will be held Friday afternoon at 4:00 in the Buckingham room. We have some uniquely important business to discuss so please plan to attend and provide your input. Professor Steve Chermak from Michigan State University will give this year's keynote address immediately following the business meeting. The President's reception will follow the keynote address, so we hope you will stay for some hors d'oeuvres, beverages, and the chance to socialize.

On behalf of the program committee and MCJA officers, welcome to the 2007 conference.

Bill Wells
1st Vice President & Program Committee Chair
